UC Now Communication Limited

Founded by seasoned ICT professionals, we focus on designing & developing software that harnesses the power of unified communication & collaboration technologies, to support business activities as they go virtual or hybrid. What's guiding our product strategies? Key insights accumulated over the years into what enterprises need to capture opportunities in today's digital world, one without geographic boundaries.

- We believe that the key to success lies in how well people interact & engage with each other, online & offline.
- We know that effective virtual engagement needs much more than video conferencing. Our event-ready software platform comes complete with scenario-based automation to make essential business processes available directly on our virtual event platform.
- We understand that events will no longer be either physical or virtual. Our professional service also includes comprehensive project management, software adaptation, hybrid event arrangement, live broadcasting service and 7X24 technical support.
